

south central/merrimack region

IMAGE COURTESY OF ANDRI KYRYCHOK

The South Central/Merrimack region is the vibrant heart of New Hampshire, anchored by its largest cities: Manchester, Nashua, and the state capital, Concord. This area's rich history as a center of the Industrial Revolution is evident in its preserved 19th-century mill buildings, many of which have been restored into museums, businesses, and residential spaces.

This large region of New Hampshire offers a blend of urban energy and historical charm, with attractions like the Manchester Historic Association's Millyard Museum and the New Hampshire State House providing insights into the state's past. Science and discovery are focal points at the McAuliffe-Shepard Discovery Center and the SEE Science Center, both offering interactive learning experiences for all ages. More unique attractions like the Budweiser Brewery Experience in Merrimack and America's Stonehenge in Salem, showcase the various array of activities available. Outdoor enthusiasts and families will find plenty of recreational opportunities within the South Central/Merrimack region's diverse landscape. Green spaces like Mine Falls Park in Nashua provide extensive trails for hiking and biking, while the Massabesic Audubon Center in Auburn offers excellent bird watching and educational programs centered around Lake Massabesic.

Beyond its natural beauty and history, the region provides a variety of engaging and unique attractions that cater to a wide audience. Whether exploring the beautiful outdoors or heading indoors, the South Central/Merrimack region is a dynamic year-round destination.
